2. Data Collection

This website does not actively collect personal data through forms, user accounts, or registrations.

However, personal data may be processed in the following ways:

Direct Contact

If you contact us via email or telephone, your personal data (such as your name, contact details, and the content of your message) will be used solely to respond to your enquiry.

3. Technical Data

When you visit this website, certain technical information may be automatically processed by the hosting provider. This may include:

- IP address
- browser type and version
- device type
- pages visited
- date and time of access

This data is used for security, performance, and maintenance purposes.

4. Use of Google Maps

This website uses Google Maps to display location information.

By accessing this feature, your IP address and other technical data may be transmitted to Google. Google may process this data in accordance with its own privacy policy.

For more information, please visit:

<https://policies.google.com/privacy>

5. Counselling Services

Any personal data shared in the context of counselling services is handled separately and in accordance with professional and ethical obligations.

This includes maintaining confidentiality and adhering to recognised professional standards.

6. Legal Basis for Processing

Where personal data is processed, it is done on the following legal bases:

- Legitimate interests – responding to enquiries
- Contract – where communication relates to the provision of services

7. Data Retention

Personal data is retained only for as long as necessary to respond to enquiries or to fulfil legal and professional obligations.

8. Your Rights

Under UK data protection law, you have the right to:

- access your personal data
- request correction of inaccurate data
- request deletion of your data
- restrict or object to processing
- lodge a complaint with the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO)

For more information, visit:

<https://ico.org.uk>

9. Data Security

Appropriate technical and organisational measures are in place to protect personal data from unauthorised access, loss, or misuse.

10. Contact
